

Kerry Woodcock, PhD, ORSCC, CPCC, PCCA

Kerry's purpose is to lead change for a world of change. As a leadership coach and facilitator, she challenges and supports leaders, teams and networks to amplify the power of relationship— for it is powerful relationship that creates meaningful change. Weaving together innovations from the world of change leadership, neuro-leadership, process-oriented psychology and adult development, she coaches leaders to grow their capability, through developing a climate, mindset and culture.

Kerry started her career as a participatory learning and action practitioner and trainer, supporting the negotiation of changing roles between government, NGOs and local forest people in natural forest management in Tanzania. Her book 'Changing Roles in Natural Forest Management', based on her doctoral research, was published in 2002 and is still well referenced today. She is a professionally accredited and certified coach, with 15 years of coaching experience and 10 years' experience coaching leaders and teams at C-Suite and Senior Director and Manager levels. She's an experienced coaching in a range of organizational contexts from NGOs to private and public corporations, in a variety of fields from Energy, Environment, Engineering, Media, Communications, and domains from Finance to IT and Human Resources. She is a trainer, mentor and supervisor of new and senior coaches in systems coaching in North America and Africa and is a CRR Global faculty leader, training both coaches and leaders in systemic coaching skills. In 2018, she led the training program for the first cohort of Ethiopian Ethical Coaches, eighteen of whom received European Mentoring and Coaching Council accreditation at foundation level or higher and continues to support the Ethiopian Local Coach Network that emerged from that.

British-born, Kerry lives in Calgary with her adventurous family and the world as her playground. She finds her deepest connection through story weaving both in writing flash fiction and in filming soul biographies.

PHONE 1.833.538.3552

EMAIL hello@level52.ca

WEB level52.ca

 LEVEL52