

Lisa Hunka

With a wealth of professional experience, Lisa builds strong partnerships with her clients, understanding and addressing their challenges at every step. She excels in holding her clients accountable and fearlessly challenging any self-limiting beliefs through thought-provoking questions.

Lisa is a certified coach specializing in team and individual coaching, process improvement, project management, operations management, and leadership. With over 25 years in the forestry, midstream, utility, and oil & gas industries, she holds a Bachelor of Science in Forestry from the University of Alberta, an MBA from the University of Athabasca, and a Certificate in Organizational Coaching from the University of British Columbia.

An active member of the International Coaching Federation (ICF) as an Associate Certified Coach (ACC), Lisa also volunteers with Banff National Park, the ICF Calgary Chapter, and the United Way GAIN Team. Splitting her professional years between British Columbia and Alberta, she currently resides in Calgary, finding solace in mountain activities like hiking, backpacking, and climbing during her downtime.
